Newsletter for church members and friends

I've been noticing once again all the runners and walkers that pass by my window at UPC every day. They are there at all hours. Some meander slowly; others sprint. Some push baby carriages, and others pull dogs large and small behind them. Some chat with friends present or on their cell phone. Others are lost in their own thoughts. All of them have histories and dreams for the future. All of them have fears and concerns, loves and losses, joys and blessings.

All these lives, like a parade of humanity's differences and similarities, have been marching not just past my window but through my subconscious these days. They and the long prayer list in the bulletin are filling my dreams with the ways our lives are touched by other people and the way our lives touch others.

It is said that there are six degrees of separation between any two people on earth. Sometimes it seems like more. Like when we have a conversation and somehow talk "past" the other person, never looking into his eyes. Or when we chat but never acknowledge what is really going on - what is weighing heavy on my heart or stirring your soul. In those moments even the person right here seems miles away, like she is seen only through glass.

My family teases that it seems as though there is only one degree of separation between me and just about anyone. It seems so only because I've lived a lot of places and meet a lot of people in my work, so I'm always running into people I know. Their perception really is not true. But I'd like it to be.

The one we follow - the one who was born to bring light in to our world, to help us see - saw people differently than the folks around him. He experienced people differently. And in doing so broke down all the degrees of separation. He refused to let stereotypes govern his expectations, regarded facades with suspicion and what they hid with compassion, looked past anger and defensiveness to the pain or fear that might be behind it. He asked questions and listened to what he heard, to the stories of people's lives.

Of course, in doing this, he made himself vulnerable. But it was vulnerability with incredible gift attached.

The Advent, Christmas, and New Year seasons this year will be as bustling as ever. People will stream past the windows of our lives. Family. Friends. Strangers. People will walk through the doors of our homes, the church, and our lives if but for brief moments. Family. Friends. Strangers. They all have histories and dreams for the future. They all have fears and concerns, loves and losses, joys and blessings. There is much behind the facade and sometimes even more so during the holidays.

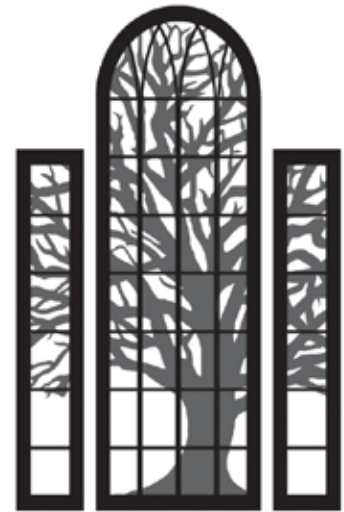

I'm thinking that tenderly stepping to the other side of the windows, that we look through at others, might be the best way to honor Christ's presence among us. For in him the degrees of separation are gone.

May surprises of joy and vulnerability, love and compassion come to you this season.

Mike and a couple of students from UPC were recently a part of the first ever Common Table event at the Wesley Center on Chimes Street. This event was a collaboration between a few other campus ministries engaged around inclusion and justice issues. We hope this will be a new model for campus ministry collaboration at LSU. Stay tuned for more Common Table events to take place sometime in the spring/winter.

Ukirk students will also be traveling to the Montreat College Conference, January 1-5th, with some other students and adults in the Presbytery. The theme this year is Peace Bound. Pray for a safe trip as our students enjoy time in the mountains, growing close to God and one another.

LEGACY CHRISTMAS CD_s

UPC's PW will be selling CDs, Legacy Christmas: Nativity Carols and Hymns, $ 15.00 each. Proceeds will be split evenly between Living Waters for the World and the Presbyterian Women's Birthday Offering. To date, net proceeds of $100,000 have been raised through the sale of the first CD issued last year. This is what partnership in mission is all about.

As with last year's CD, the music on the new record is stunning and features some of the world's best instrumentalists and vocalists of the genre. This collection picks up where the last CD leaves off, beginning with Celtic-influenced pieces and progressing to Appalachian stylings common to churches of the 1700-1800's.

Legacy Christmas: Nativity Carols and Hymns will become a treasured part of one's Christmas music collection. What a wonderful way to bring cheer to your church members and other groups while raising money to help children and their families with the gift of clean water!

Advent and Christmas at UPC

Advent and Christmas Worship

This year our Advent celebration will focus on questions that arise from the anticipation of Christ in our lives and in the world and from the experience of his presence. Join in worship on Sunday mornings and for Taizé sung prayer on Wednesdays as we explore the season in Word, music, prayer, and life together.

The season's themes will be enhanced as we learn and sing together each Sunday, hymn No. 89 "For You, O Lord, My Soul in Stillness Waits"

Church School Offering

The Church School offering this year will go to Park Elementary, one of our mission partners in Baton Rouge. Please take some time each Sunday morning to bring along extra cash to help out young students in our city. This gift is a great expression of our connection to our community.

Pre-K and Kindergarten (Ages 4 to Kindergarten) "Godly Play"

Room 105. Teachers: Pat Strain and Mary Mikell

Elementary (1-5th Grade) "We Believe"

Room 213. Teachers: Betsy Wilks, Alicia Lewis and Ed Britton

Middle School (6th-8th Grade) "Faith and Sacraments"

Room 203. Teachers: Amy Vidrine, Jill Clemmons, and Kelly Kerr

Senior High (9th-12th Grade) "Love Wins"

Room 206 (gathering location). Teachers: Joe Skillen and Linda Babin

Adult Bible Study Class

"Silence, and Other Surprising Invitations of Advent"

Usually when we think of the Advent story, Mary, Joseph, and the angel Gabriel come to mind. This Advent devotional by Enuma Okoro invites us to take a different approach, looking at the story of Zechariah and Elizabeth instead. Join us as we reflect on our own experiences of waiting, longing, community, and hungering for God.

Conference Room (122) Facilitator: Peggy Carroll

"What Am I Born to Do?"

November 16th through December 21st

Leading us through the Advent season will be a unique class on exploring who we are and what we do. Join us as we hear a diverse range of members of the UPC family discuss how their careers intersect with their calling. Different classes will focus on: Art (11/16), Care (11/23), Building (11/30), Service (12/7), Nature (12/14), and Learning (12/21). The open ended discussions will lead us not only to get a better picture of how we spend our time during the week but also to reflect on the nature of vocation and the many ways we find ourselves called to manifest our faith in the world.

Parks Wilson Room (108) Facilitators: Jon Cogburn and Christine Kooi

Adult classes for the winter and spring are still being developed. We have exciting things underway! Stay tuned for emails and announcements in worship bulletins regarding new classes as they arrive. Small Groups will resume again during the Lenten season.

Interested in going to Cuba but need more information?

In April 2015 UPC members are going to help celebrate the third anniversary of our Living Waters for the World installation at our partner church in San Jose de los Ramos, Cuba. Would you like to be part of this celebration and get to know our partners?

An interest meeting is being held at 7:00 p.m. Thursday, December 4th in the Parks Wilson room at UPC. There will be a short presentation about Cuba, our partner church in San Jose and a rough idea of what the trip will look like and how much it will cost.

If you have an interest, this is your meeting! Please join us.

Youth Group News

Youth Groups have continued to have very busy, yet fun semesters at UPC. Senior Highs will have their lock in and Christmas Gift shopping on the evening of December 5th. Middle Schoolers will help wrap presents on December 7th. All the youth will join together for the Christmas caroling event with the church on December 14th. The winter/spring schedule is still underway, yet both groups should plan for a welcome back from break celebration event on January 11th.

PRESBYTERIAN PANEL

UPC has been selected as one of 500 churches to take part in the Presbyterian Panel. The Presbyterian Panel is a three-year research project, published by PC(USA), that provides information on the beliefs and practices of Presbyterians. You can find more information on the Presbyterian Panel by visiting their website: www.pcusa.org/research/panel.

UPC has been asked to provide its membership list and contact information (mailing and email addresses) for members. A random sample of members from UPC will then be chosen and contacted by Presbyterian Panel. If you are selected, you will be asked to complete a questionnaire and become a panelist for a three-year term, starting in 2015. If you are one of the members randomly selected, you are not obligated to participate, even if you are randomly selected.

The contact information sent to PC(USA) will only be used for The Presbyterian Panel. We have been asked to send both mailing addresses and email addresses. If you would prefer to have either your email or postal address omitted, please let Jill Clemmons (jclemm1@lsu.edu) know by December 7.

CAREGIVERS SUPPORT GROUP

The Caregivers Support Group at UPC meets on the last Sunday of the month right after church. It is available to all who are caregivers to elderly parents, friends, or adult children. The next Caregivers Support Group meetings will be after church on December 28 and January 28. If you have any questions or would like to have a particular topic of interest scheduled for a Support Group meeting, feel free to call Jane Smith at 315-4946 or Pam Bartlett at 925-2693.

..... Small Groups Recap

UPC's second round of small groups concluded in mid-November. Although they met in different locations with different group facilitators, they were all rich with meaningful discussion and deepened relationships. Enjoy these recaps from the voices of each group facilitator and look out for small groups to resume during the season of Lent, 2015.

Nourishing Life

Group Leader: Randy Nichols. Reflection written by Lori Tucker

Our Tuesday evening group began each session by enjoying a meal together, and while we were tempted to linger at the table to share cooking and food-shopping tips, we also were eager to discuss "Leading Lives That Matter." The readings in the book were a great catalyst for discussing the many facets of career, work and meaning, including many tough questions. How much choice do we have in choosing meaningful work? Are some people "called" to specific work? Are some lives more significant than others? In times of crisis, are those who keep the home fires burning leading lives that matter as much as those in the trenches? The book laid the foundation for our conversations by presenting a wide range of responses humans may have to these questions from well-known voices in literature and history. The small group setting allowed people to share their own experiences on a more personal level than often is the case. Some individuals in the group are facing significant transitions in their work life and found this a safe place to talk about what's happening in their lives. As our scheduled sessions came to an end, we were thankful to have found a way to set aside some time to explore these topics together and felt some reluctance to concluding the conversations.

Soup Group

Group Leaders: Melody Joachim and Juliana Sheffield

The Soup Group gathered in a different home each week for a delicious meal and lively discussion. Our conversation wandered freely as we shared our personal stories alongside the writings from our study book. At first, we defined vocation as a personal calling but by the end of our time together we began to see a communal nature to vocation - that our stories are interconnected and the relationships in our lives help us become who we are meant to be. Our weekly meetings led to thoughtful questions, diverse insights, tremendous laughter, and enriched friendships. If you get the chance to be part of a small group, we encourage you to take advantage of the opportunity! It was well worth the time and effort!

Caffeinated Conversation

Group Leaders: Eleanor Canon and Jan Boydston

Caffeinated Conversations loved meeting at La Divina for our small group discussions! We are now addicted to their Cucumber Basil Lemonade. The group was great. We met during the day so our members were all retired or no longer employed outside the home. With that being said, our group read the book! We also printed out the list of suggested movies and swore we would get together in the spring to watch the movies! Each week we found ourselves discussing our past work experiences, how we arrived at the work we did do, and particularly we talked about the influence of family on who and what we became. We learned so much about each other in our seven or eight weeks together. We were all moved by some of the readings each week. We all favored different ones. It was definitely a wonderful small group experience!

Covenant Network Regional Conference

Marriage Matters: A Matter of Life and Love

January 24, 2015

In late January, UPC will host one of the regional conferences of Covenant Network. The mission of the Covenant Network of Presbyterians is "to strengthen the church of Jesus Christ, with the help of God's grace. We are called to achieve this goal by furthering the inclusion of LGBTQ persons, and by working for the unity of the PC(USA)." UPC has been a Covenant Network congregation for more than ten years and remains the only church in Louisiana to be officially affiliated with this organization.

In the year leading up to General Assembly (GA), Covenant Network holds a national conference. In the year following GA, there are regional conferences; UPC is hosting the conference for presbyteries all along the I-10 corridor from Houston to Tallahassee. The regional conferences this year all have the same title, "Marriage Matters," and are focused on the following objectives:

1. To educate about church polity and the proposed changes to the Presbyterian Constitution
2. To celebrate and support one another in helping the church move towards inclusion and same gender marriage
3. To work on a strategy for moving forward changes in the Constitution

The regional conference at UPC will be held on Saturday, January 24. The conference opens with worship led by the Rev. Ken Kovacs, Pastor and Chief of Staff at Catonsville Presbyterian Church in Baltimore, whose partner is from Louisiana. The plenary session will be led by the Rev. Cynthia Rigby, the W.C. Brown Professor of Theology at Austin Seminary. There will be two sets of workshops, which will include the following sessions:

1. Legal Matters: Legal Review and Update on Court Decisions (Chris Otten)
2. The Bible Matters: the Changing Definition of Marriage in the Bible and the Church (Rev. Cynthia Rigby)
3. Marriage Matters: Stories of Life and Love (Rev. Ken Kovacs, moderator)
4. Welcoming Matters: Is My Church Gay Friendly?

After lunch, we will learn more about the history of Covenant Network and how the church got to where it is today, followed by a time of working in presbytery caucuses to strategize about the upcoming presbytery vote on the proposed changes to the Constitution.

On Saturday evening, Ava and Cordell Haymon will be hosting a fundraiser for Covenant Network at their home. While the conference is open to anyone, it is particularly geared towards Presbyterians, and we hope the evening reception will be a great opportunity to invite more people from the community to learn about Covenant Network.

We hope you will consider joining us for this day of learning and celebration. The committee is looking for additional volunteers, particularly to help with logistics (e.g. serving lunch). Please contact Jane Smith at (H) 383-9441, (C) 315-4946, or by e-mail jmvsmith@bellsouth.net if you are interested in getting involved.

Registration will soon be open at <http://covnetpres.org/baton-rouge-la-regional-conference/>. You can also find paper registration applications at University Presbyterian Church. For more information, please contact the co-chairs: Jane Smith (jmvsmith@bellsouth.net) or Allison El Koubi (allison.elkoubi@gmail.com).

Appreciate, Dedicate, Celebrate, And Pledge!

Beth Paskoff and Robbie Phillabaum for the 2015 Annual Campaign

December and January are times filled with hopes, promises, and joyful celebrations. All these words apply to our annual stewardship:

- We hope that your promises, your pledges, will enable UPC to fund our visions, operations, missions, and programs, all of which celebrate God's gifts and bring joy and new hope to those who benefit from these programs.
- We appreciate your pledges. At the time of this writing, we have received 72 pledges for a total of $380,218.

We still have a long way to go, and we need to hear from you soon. On December 4, the Stewardship and Finance Committee will meet with UPC committee chairs to hear budget requests; on January 15, the Budget Committee will meet to draft the 2015 budget.

If we don't have your pledge, we can't put it into the budget. We need your financial support to realize our hopes. What could we achieve if everyone gave something? What a cause for celebration that would be! Pledges are confidential and can be adjusted as needed, and pledge cards may be found in the pews. Give what you are able to with joy and thanksgiving, "for it is in giving that we receive."

Heard of Stephen Ministries?

Stephen Ministry is Christ caring for people through people. Stephen Ministers are often called the "after people." They are the people who come alongside you- or your friends, neighbors, coworkers, relatives – and provide support and comfort after a crisis, illness, significant life change, death of a loved one, etc. for as long as needed. The Stephen Series® is a complete system for training and organizing laypeople to provide one-to-one Christian care to hurting people in and around a congregation. UPC does a great job supporting and caring for those around us who are struggling, yet our Nurture Committee is wondering if this system would expand and enrich our ministry, and therefore we are pondering enrollment. Is this something you think would be beneficial for UPC? Have you had previous experience with Stephen Ministries? Would you be interested in learning more about this and possibly become a Stephen Minister? We need your feedback! Please contact Juliana Sheffield (juliana421@hotmail.com or 225-313-3728) with your thoughts, suggestions, interest, and general feedback. For more information, check out www.stephenministries.org.

Mission Statement
 In response to God's grace,
 University Presbyterian Church of Baton Rouge seeks creatively – through nurture, education, worship
 and community outreach
 – to sustain an inclusive, compassionate family of faith; it seeks to promote spiritual growth by awakening souls to God's infinite mercy embodied in the reconciling love of Christ.
